Great state. Great opportunity.

Principal's comments...

Dear Parents and Caregivers,

It is a perfect time of year in Townsville and it's been great to see the students being so active and enjoying the outdoor activities. The court has been a buzz in the mornings and at lunchtimes with so many students practicing various skipping routines, which is the PE focus for many classes. Handball has also grown exponentially – as have the modern handball rules! Bring back the 'old school' handball, I say! It's been fun to get back out and enjoy some time with the students before school and during lunchtime games. Red Track training has also been in full swing as the students prepare for their interschool competition on Monday. Good luck to all the students that are competing!

NAIDOC DAY

We had a great NAIDOC Day last Wednesday, where we officially opened our new Yarning Circle. This will be a great meeting place for groups and classes. There will certainly be some valuable conversations held in this area, using traditional protocols of respect, equality and honesty. We also had Uncle Russell sharing traditional stories about our local area, which had the students totally engaged. Thanks also Miss Christine, our Indigenous teacher aide, and also to Jamal, Lila, Kyesha and Leniah for presenting speeches around the 2018 NAIDOC theme, 'Because of her, we can.'

Challenge Games

Well done to the students that attended the Challenge Games this week. This event caters for a range of students with a disability by providing fun centred games and competitions. It was a wonderful day and the students had a fantastic time.

What is your child learning?

All students should now have brought home their class newsletter and information about what the class is learning this term. We highly encourage you to engage with your children about what they are learning, so that you can play an active part in their learning. Reading goals should also have been sent home now. Please ensure that your child is reading every night for at least 15 minutes with a focus on their reading strategies.

HELPING AT HOME WITH WRITING

Children begin writing from their first day at school and are invited to write on a whole range of topics throughout their school life. It is important to encourage and praise all attempts from an early age, even if it looks like scribble in a foreign language to you. Children will soon get the message that written language conveys a message that can be kept, and shared with others.

You can support your child at home with writing by:

- Providing a range of materials for them to write with. Think about chalk, crayons, textas, pencils, glitter pens, biros, novelty pens, paint brushes, charcoal, sticks in the dirt.
- Encouraging them to write at home: write their own shopping lists, jobs to do, letters on the notice board, emails, cards and letters to friends and relatives, signs and labels around the house, instructions to games.
- Talking about and modelling the different types of writing you do at home such as writing application forms, emails, letters, lists and cards.
- Praising all attempts at writing and encouraging them to have a go at new words before giving them the correct spelling. Don't always tell them how to spell a word or they will rely on you every time they want to spell a new word.
- Playing word games with them like scrabble, hangman, I spy.
- Reading to, and with, them regularly.
- Using a word processing program with them and allowing them to experiment with fonts, sizes and colours.
- Being interested in what they write, even if it makes no sense to you at all!

Happy writing!

LOTE NEWS

Congratulations to Haylee in 5/6F who represented Railway Estate at the recent Townsville and District Japanese Speech Contest held last Monday. Public and private schools gather at the Ryan Catholic College each year for a Japanese speech and speaking competition. Our own Haylee managed a commendable 3rd place (out of 27 entries in the Year 6 Division)! Several Japanese ladies commented on her performance and were not surprised at all that she gained one of the top places. Haylee had given up many of her own lunch breaks to practise and it was pleasing to see all those months of work payoff. Shinako Mc Donald coached Haylee and was extremely happy with her performance. Well done Haylee!

STEM CHALLENGE
